Spotlight: The Hoggan family recently moved to Wallsburg. The family consists of Jim, Terry, and children, Alicia, Jason, and Stephen.

Jim is with the Vinyl Fence Company (specializing in stock fencing). He is also a Business Consultant helping women and minorities get their own businesses started. Jim worked with Vice President-elect Dan Quayle's program of the "Job Training Placement Act" (government pays the company's half of the individuals ages for three to six months during training).

Terry is at the Provo Canyon School, where she is Executive Assistant Coordinator for the Long-Term Residential Treatment Center for adolescents. Eleven year old Alicia plays the clarinet, loves Chinese food, ballet, and sports. Eight year old Jason enjoys pizza, ice cream, has a "yellow belt" in karate, loves basketball, volleyball, animals (is studying a college text) on Orothology.

Seven year old Stephen is looking forward to getting his English Pointer, and playing his guitar. Music and the arts are evident in the Hoggan family as Jim paints beautiful scenery, and sings a terrific bass. Terry enjoys singing and playing the piano. She is interested in joining a theater group.

Many wishes for a good life in Wallsburg go out to the Hoggan family!
